Challenges Court's Power to Empanel One in Thaw Case.

Shearn Maintains Jury Is Client's Right and Justice Keogh Reserves Decision.

After hearing arguments for and agains the application of Harry Kendall Thaw. who shot and killed Stanford White, for a jury trial to determine his sanity, Justice Keogh, in the Supreme Court, White Plains, yesterday reserved opinion. He announced he would render his decision next On the application of William Travers Jerome, former District Attorney of New York, who appeared for the State when he learned Benjamin's bondsman was of New York because of his success in com-Thaw's previous attempts to get out of Matteawan, and said he must have at least three weeks to prepare his side of the case, Justice Keogh adjourned the original writ of habeas corpus proceedings until Benjamin.

This was the first appearance of Mr. Jerome in the Thaw case since July, 1909, when he opposed the release of Thaw, and after a hearing lasting sixteen days Justice Mills recommitted the slayer of Mr. White to the Matteawan asylum. Thaw was not present in court at yesterday's session, as the argument was purely on his right to a trial by a jury. In addition to Mr. Jero'ne. Attorney General Carmody was represented by his first deputy, James C. Kellogg, while Clarence J. Shearn appeared in cehalf of

Mr. Shearn at the outset made a determined effort to induce Judge Keogh to grant the application of his client. In his argument to have Thaw's mentality passed upon by twelve jurors Mr. Shearn said,

"I wish it understood that in making this motion it is no indication on my part that I would prefer the judgment of a jury to onal liberty which was at stake I would gladly submit it to your honor. But in this instance it is the life and liberty of auother. I find that for ages it has been the common belief of our Anglo-Saxon race that where a man's life or liberty is at stake he should have the right to refer the

Says Jury Would Establish Precedent. Mr. Jerome declared the sole question involved was whether Thaw was entitled to a jury trial. He challenged the power of the court to impanel a jury in a writ of habeas corpus case like this one. He said if there had been any right to a jury trial it had been waived in other habeas corpus proceedings, and that now it would be establishing a legal precedent. Mr. Jerome said that in 1908 Thaw made a similar effort, but Justice Mills decided against him. An appeal was taken to the Appellate Division, but the majority sustained Justice Mills. Mayor Gaynor, then a justice of the division, wrote a dissenting opinion, and the arguments it contained were advanced by Mr. Shearn in Thaw's behalf, "But," continued Mr. Jerome, "if in any event you should find you have the power, it is because you sit here as a chancellor and as such the guardian of those of feeble and unsound mind. The only time when a chancellor impanels is when he can be adised in this class of cases; that is, the ery would be an advisory body."

Mr. Jerome said the Thaw insanity proceedings had cost the State of New York $54,000, and this caused Mr. Shearn to say that a large part of this sum had been spent in hiring alienists who never personlly examined Thaw, but simply passed judgment as to his mentality as he walked in court and in studying after six hundred pages of testimony had termined by a unanimous decision that Thaw was sane.

not been testified to by any of the experts that Thaw was suffering from any other form of mental disease than chronic delusional insanity or paranola. Depressive insanity was left out of the case altogether.

"It has never been testified to that there was anything the matter with Thaw except that the alienists said he had false beliefs. These were the personal beliefs of three alienists, none of whom personally examined Thaw except when he walked into court. The only one that has examined Thaw personally has been Dr. Baker, and he has stated that the patient was not sufstate to prove this man insane are sufficient street." to indicate that he is sane."

Mr. Jerome bitterly opposed the idea of Justice Keogh's exercising any discretion. and asserted that it would be of no avail to have a jury; he declared that it would be almost useless to get a jury of twelve men to assist Justice Keogli in deciding the case, because of his long experience on the bench and in handling many cases from Matteawan Asylum.

Mr. Jerome asked Mr. Shearn if he would stipulate to read this testimony. "Not unless it is done over my dead body," declared Mr. Shearn. Then it was that Mr. Jerome said it would be necessary to call about a hundred witnesses. Justice Keogh miled and said he would limit the number of insanity experts on each side to four.

Writes Board of Aldermen Urging Law to Regulate the "Movies."

Mayor Gaynor has written to the Board of Aldermen urging them to pass the ordinance to regulate moving picture shows tee appointed by him. It was presented to the last board, but was not acted upon before the board went out of existence. The Mayor wrote in part:

The Mayor wrote in part:

It seems to me that the ordinance is well thought of and should receive favorable consideration and be passed by you. I do not undertake to say that it is perfect. I dare say that you may find that it needs certain changes or amendments. All that I urge is that the ordinance be considered and passed as it is, or with such wise amendments as you think proper. These shows are a great solace and the source of much entertainment and education to the whole community. They are attended by all kinds of people, and especially by those who cannot afford to attend more expensive places of amusement. The pictures shown are moral and instructive. The great outery of certain uninformed persons against them which existed not long ago has subsided. Our part is to safeguard these shows in all respects, physical, mental and moral, by a good ordinance.
